Dear Friends,

Our world, just as yours, has changed dramatically in the last year. We have been forced to adapt and have taken the opportunity to look at our mission with new eyes. This has been a year where business as usual gave way to the unexpected, where we were called to be flexible while still holding steadfast in our commitment to the BMC legacy and our extended community. In order to do this, we knew we had to slow down and listen: listen to how we can nurture and cultivate beauty during dark days, how we can confront implicit bias in our organization and the art world at large, and how we can reimagine our work to become more inclusive by making deeper connections locally and internationally. We are privileged to have a blueprint set forth by Black Mountain College that valued the greater good, experimentation, and accountability. We hope that in the last year we have earned your trust in us to uphold this legacy.

We are grateful to those in our community who have helped us navigate this difficult year and our evolving future. Our board of directors and staff were challenged to end cycles of harm and are indebted to those who supported and humbled us through transparent, open conversation and inspired collaboration. It has been a privilege to find opportunities for growth, knowing that massive change must come from small beginnings.

While several of the museum’s planned exhibitions and major signature events were postponed, such as the annual {Re}HAPPENING and ReVIEWING Black Mountain College International Conference, BMCM+AC adapted to this change in circumstances by shifting our attention to providing online programming during the six months we were closed to the public, from mid-March to mid-September. In a year when so many cultural organizations suffered tremendous losses, we were lucky to receive support from generous donors, government agencies, and private foundations that allowed us to retain our entire staff and to continue providing direct support to individuals producing new creative work and scholarship in the spirit of Black Mountain College.

Image credit: Leap Then Look (Active Archive Digital Residents)
Through our Museum from Home Initiative, established in March of 2020, over 9,000 of you joined us for streaming performances and programs. BMCM+AC collaborated with 50+ artists, performers, and scholars from across 4 continents through digital programs, publications, and residencies. With the belief that creativity can be a catalyst for change, we prioritized supporting artists, scholars, and curators locally and across the globe. Contributions from individuals and funders made this possible while keeping our programs free and open to all during this time when they could have the greatest impact.

Looking into 2021, we are energized to continue the work begun during this year of transition and reflection. Starting in January, BMCM+AC and UNC Asheville will host multiple public conversations and interviews with a diverse group of artists, curators, faith leaders, and scholars to explore the role of arts in spiritual practice and religious life and the role of spiritual practice and religious life in the arts. The Faith in Arts conversations will allow us to collect and build a library of stories and perspectives which illuminate the myriad dimensions of the complex topic of faith in arts from a multiplicity of viewpoints.

In the Spring we will open a new exhibition with a focus on global citizenship, grounded in Black Mountain College’s international influences, robust immigrant community, and principles of democratic responsibility. The exhibition will showcase works from our permanent collection alongside contemporary artists responding to the most pressing issues of our time and the nuances of citizenship in a global world.

As we collectively begin the process of healing over the coming year, we hope that we will be able to see many more of you in person and look forward to activating our galleries once again with performances and gatherings. However, we have no intention of going back to “normal.” We have found a meaningful path forward and promise to remain vigilant in the face of injustice and to continue to respond to our ever changing world. This is the only way to honor BMC’s legacy. Your trust in us, your perspectives, and your belief in the lasting value of innovation and experimentation make what we do possible. In our 2020 Annual Report, we invite you to join us in looking back on this year’s challenges & accomplishments as we enter this new future together.

Sincerely,
Don Carson, Board Chair
Sydney Green, Vice Board Chair
Jeff Arnal, Executive Director

Image credit: Steve Locke, Homage to the Auction Block #44 Respite
MISSION
Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center preserves and continues the legacy of educational and artistic innovation of Black Mountain College. We achieve our mission through collection, conservation, and educational activities including exhibitions, publications, and public programs.

BACKGROUND
BMCM+AC has experienced exponential growth since 2016 with audience numbers and membership doubling. Since 1993, BMCM+AC has had 200,000+ in-person engagements with a range of local, national, and international constituents, participated in 6,000+ collaborations with artists and other organizations, organized 60+ exhibitions and 1000+ events, created 33 exhibition catalogues, dossiers, and other publications, and gained 17,000+ followers across social media channels. With this expanded growth it is evident that the museum must develop an even more robust way of operating to ensure BMCM+AC’s future. In September 2018, BMCM+AC moved into a permanent home for the first time in its 27-year history. The new 6,000 square foot space has nearly doubled the museum’s footprint and includes 2,500 square feet of flexible exhibition/event space with a seating capacity for 180, a permanent Black Mountain College history and research center, an expanded library and education center with over 1,500 BMC-related texts, and on-site storage for the collection.
BMCM+AC by the numbers looks very different in a year when our doors were closed to the public for six months, events had to be postponed, and visitor capacity was limited in the interest of public health.

But as the number of people who entered our galleries in person decreased, thousands of visitors joined us for virtual programs over Zoom, YouTube, Instagram, and more. We saw new and familiar faces come together to learn and be inspired by the multifaceted legacy of Black Mountain College.

AUDIENCES & PARTICIPANTS
- 11,600 guests and online program attendees
- 545 active members
- 85 first time members
- 90+ collaborators
- 3 gallery exhibitions
- 2 digital exhibitions

PROGRAMS
- 46 events
- 17 lectures + conversations
- 3 film screenings
- 3 workshops
- 9 performances
- 14 Instagram takeovers + live talks
- 4 BMC Spotlight videos

DIGITAL
- 75,000 visitors to blackmountaincollege.org
- 11,000 Facebook followers
- 10,850 Instagram followers
- 4,400 e-newsletter subscribers

Image credit: Josef Albers, BMC Seal
R. Buckminster Fuller and Shoji Sadao, Proposed dome over Manhattan (1960)
Thumbnail, From the Vault, featuring photographs of Merce Cunningham by Hazel Larsen Archer
EXHIBITIONS

VanDerBeek + VanDerBeek
Curated by Sara VanDerBeek and Chelsea Spengemann, Director of the Stan VanDerBeek Archive
BMCM+AC began 2020 with the final days of the exhibition VanDerBeek + VanDerBeek, a multidisciplinary exhibition focused on pioneering film and video artist and Black Mountain College alumnus Stan VanDerBeek. Contemporary artist Sara VanDerBeek, Stan’s daughter, created new work for the exhibition and served as the exhibition curator alongside Chelsea Spengemann, the director of the Stan VanDerBeek Archive. The items selected and newly created for this exhibition over the course of several research trips illuminated connections between Stan VanDerBeek’s experimental oeuvre, the works of other BMC artists including ceramicist/poet M.C Richards and weaver Anni Albers, and contemporary visual practices as depicted in Sara’s sculptural and photographic work.

Question Everything! The Women of Black Mountain College
Curated by Kate Averett and Alice Sebrell
The exhibition Question Everything! The Women of Black Mountain College opened as an expansive survey taking place across BMCM+AC’s upper and lower level galleries. Question Everything! offered a comprehensive exploration of the lives of BMC’s women students and faculty, with a focus on representing their ideas and experiences through their own voices, whether written, heard, or depicted through artwork. The museum’s unanticipated temporary closure in March 2020, while Question Everything! was on view, presented new challenges. BMCM+AC increased efforts to provide digitally accessible resources, including an online version of the exhibition. Six months later, when North Carolina entered Phase 2.5 of Safer at Home restrictions, the museum reopened with an extended and slightly consolidated version of Question Everything!, along with two new exhibitions drawing primarily from BMCM+AC’s Permanent Collection.

Jonathan Williams and the Jargon Society
Curated by Alice Sebrell
Jonathan Williams and the Jargon Society explored the many facets of BMC alumnus Jonathan Williams (1929–2008), a man whose robust and eclectic interests and endeavors make him impossible to easily define; the Jargon Society Press, which he founded in 1951 just prior to his arrival at BMC; and its associated artists and writers. Williams was a photographer; a poet and essayist; a publisher and designer of books; a collector of books, art, and language; a walker and hiker; an active letter writer; a Southerner by birth and traveler by nature; an advocate for the under-appreciated; and a man who appreciated good food and drink. His work and collaborations throughout his life reflect these wide-ranging enthusiasms.

Image credit: Sara VanDerBeek, Roman Stripe IV, 2016 (Metro Pictures)
From the Vault: Recent Gifts to the Collection
Curated by Alice Sebrell
Opening in September 2020, From the Vault: Recent Gifts to the Collection showcased recent gifts to the BMCM+AC Permanent Collection that enhance the understanding of Black Mountain College alumni or faculty, their contributions over their lifetimes, and the lasting influence of BMC as a community. Works by Karen Karnes, Jorge Fick, Jack Tworkov, Faith Murray Britton, Sewell Sillman, Gerald van de Wiele, Frank Hursh and others demonstrate the dedication to creativity and experimentation that characterized the individuals who formed the BMC community. Online, a virtual 3D tour of the exhibition is accompanied by a short film on the history of BMCM+AC’s permanent collection.

Leap Then Look: Active Archive Digital Residency
Curated by Active Archive Digital Residents Leap Then Look (Lucy Cran and Bill Leslie)
Active Archive is a residency program that invites artists, scholars, and cultural thinkers to engage with BMC’s legacy of multidisciplinary innovation through research-based commissions using the museum’s extensive collection, the historic site, and the Black Mountain College archives. In the summer of 2020, residencies went virtual! This exhibition captures the work performed in July 2020 by UK-based participatory artists Lucy Cran and Bill Leslie, who form the collaborative duo Leap Then Look. Through workshops over Zoom and creative prompts on Instagram, Leap Then Look invited the public to engage with BMC’s richly diverse history, focusing on process, experience, and material exploration.

Image credit: Leap Then Look Digital Residency (IG takeover)
VanDerBeek + VanDerBeek
An exhibition catalogue was published in conjunction with VanDerBeek + VanDerBeek in January 2020 with full-page color reproductions of the work of the two generations of artists; a transcript of the ReVIEWING BMC conference keynote lecture presented by Chelsea Spengemann and Sara VanDerBeek; and essays by scholars Gloria Sutton, Andrianna Campbell-LaFleur, and Hyemin Kim, exploring and extending the themes of the exhibition in depth.

Journal of Black Mountain College Studies
The peer-reviewed, open-access Journal of Black Mountain College Studies issued two volumes in 2020. Volume 10: Chance | Dance (Spring 2020) explored dance and performance at Black Mountain College, replete with fascinating videos and photographs, as well as articles and poetry. Volume 11: The Practice and Pedagogy of Writing at Black Mountain College (Fall 2020) brought together a variety of essays interpreting the pedagogy of writing and showing how writing was central among the practices of the arts at the college, accompanied by readings, performances, and exhibitions of contemporary artists/writers working in the avant-garde spirit of the college today.
PROFESSIONS

New Day by Robert Ladislas Derr
Saturday, January 25
In this Fringe Festival interactive performance, Derr cast viewers as painters in a playful investigation of Kenneth Noland’s painting New Day, 1967.

Bana Haffar and Third Coast Percussion: Shed
Thursday, February 13 (in person) and Saturday, May 2 (virtual)
Grammy-winning Chicago-based percussion ensemble Third Coast Percussion and composer Bana Haffar debuted Shed, a new commission for percussion and modular synthesizer inspired by the work of Anni Albers.

Damselfly Trio
Thursday, February 27
This concert featured three works by BMC alumna Ursula Mamlok—the kaleidoscopic Der Andreas Garten for trio, Haiku Settings for soprano and flute, and Variations for solo flute—as well as selections by composers George Crumb, Alfred Zimmerlin, and the world premiere of Ricardo Zohn-Muldoon’s complete Songs from Comala.

Brooklyn Rider and Matana Roberts
Wednesday, July 15 (virtual)
Performance of borderlands... from the album Healing Modes, exploring immigration and the interconnectedness of music and healing. Composer and multidisciplinary artist Matana Roberts and members of the string quartet Brooklyn Rider joined BMCM+AC in conversation about their work.

Turning Jewels Into Water
Thursday, September 10 (virtual)
Presented in partnership with Asheville Rhythm

Kimathi Moore
Thursday, October 8 (virtual)
Electronic composer Kimathi Moore performed Oliver’s Tail [We The Fish] a new piece that attempts to illustrate a town underwater inspired by the Polish surrealist painter Jacek Yerka.

Image credit: Steph Richards (courtesy of the artist)
Steph Richards + Andrew Munsey
October 14 (virtual)
Experimental trumpeter/composer Steph Richards and drummer/producer Andrew Munsey performed and discussed homeostasis, a new piece for sonic conversations with difficult objects.

Asher Gamedze + Another Time Ensemble
Wednesday, December 2nd (virtual)
For this performance, from a rooftop in historic Cairo, Asher Gamedze and Another Time Ensemble meditate and speculate on the possibility and necessity of another time. The performance was followed by a discussion with Asher Gamedze.

Sofia Jernberg
Wednesday, December 9th (virtual)
Experimental composer and vocalist Sofia Jernberg presents an original performance that avant-garde icon Laurie Anderson calls “extraordinary” and “transcendent.” Introduced by Cameron Beauchamp, member of the Grammy award winning ensemble Roomful of Teeth.

WORKSHOPS

PERSPECTIVES: Lunchtime Workshop with Bana Haffar
Wednesday, February 12
In this hands-on workshop, composer/musician Bana Haffar explained the process behind her composition Shed and invited participants to actively engage with the score.

Bits and Pieces: Collage Workshop with Connie Bostic
Saturday, February 29
Asheville artist Connie Bostic led participants in making collages, working with images and text from magazines, photos, books, and other visual materials.

Leap Then Look: Light, Sound, Movement Workshop
Friday, July 10 (virtual)
Participatory artists Leap Then Look re-imagined the experimental Light, Sound, Movement workshops that took place at BMC in the late 40s, led by W.P. “Pete” and Elizabeth Jennerjahn.
FILM SCREENINGS

Don’t Know, We’ll See: The Work of Karen Karnes
Thursday, February 6 (in person)
September 8–15 (virtual)
Film screening of award-winning filmmaker Lucy Massie Phenix’s intimate documentary of the work and life of master clay artist, Karen Karnes. For the digital screening, artist, educator, writer and curator Anna Helgeson recorded a new introduction and response exploring Karnes’ relationship to contemporary feminism.

TAYO: Video + Conversation with Grace Villamil
Wednesday, November 11th (virtual premiere)
A new film about the October 24th activation of TAYO, a new installation from Grace Villamil, in collaboration with IONE and Lisa Kelley of the Ministry of Maat. From cinematographer Sam Falconi and filmmaker Marina Katz. Followed by a discussion with Grace Villamil.

INSTAGRAM TAKEOVERS

April 3: Maria Chavez, abstract turntablist, sound artist
April 4: Ant M. Lobo, independent curator and artist
April 5: Anna Helgeson and Lori Horvitz, collaborating artists
April 6: Helen Molesworth, curator of Leap Before You Look: Black Mountain College 1933 – 1957 (ICA Boston)
April 8: Jason Andrew, independent curator and director of the Estate of Jack Tworkov (featuring live conversations with Julia K Gleich and Hermine Ford)
April 9: David Silver, Black Mountain College scholar
April 10: John Heginbotham, choreographer and director of The Principles of Uncertainty, presented as part of the BMCM+AC Performance Initiative (March, 2018)
April 11: Sarah Urist Green, curator, author, and host of PBS’s The Art Assignment

May 12 – 15: Faith in Arts Instagram Takeover Series
Molly Silverstein, Richard Chess, Alicia Jo Rabins, and Kimberly Bartosik

May 26: Material Sound at Home
Curator Caleb Kelly and artists Pia Van Gelder, Peter Blamey, Vicki Browne, and Jenn Grossman, artists featured in the 2019 exhibition Material, Sound, and Black Mountain College

June 19: Julie J. Thomson, John Cage’s Mud Book

July 1–10: Leap Then Look, UK-based participatory artists

November 30: Richard Reed Parry, co-creator of Black Mountain Songs, presented as part of the BMCM+AC Performance Initiative (September, 2017)

Image credit: TAYO still (Sam Falconi), Leap Then Look (IG post) Black Mountain Songs Asheville premiere (Michael Oppenheim)
LECTURES + CONVERSATIONS

When the College Was Female: A Presentation by David Silver
Wednesday, March 11
This presentation took a deep dive into Black Mountain College during the WWII years, from 1942 to 1946, when most male students and professors left the college for the war, and the campus population was (mostly) female. David Silver is Associate Professor and Chair of Environmental Studies at the University of San Francisco.

Question Everything! The Women of Black Mountain College with Kate Averett
Thursday, April 30 (virtual)
Presented in partnership with REVOLVE as part of their new Home School series. Kate Averett, co-curator of the exhibition Question Everything! The Women of Black Mountain College, shared the history of BMC, centering the perspective of the school’s female students, faculty, and staff.

PERSPECTIVES: Julie Levin Caro
Friday, May 8 (virtual)
Asheville-based art historian and professor Julie Levin Caro investigated how her experience as a scholar of Black Mountain College and of African American BMC faculty member Jacob Lawrence served her as an educator during this crisis.

An Open Conversation with Different Wrld
Wednesday, June 25 (virtual)
Honey Simone, a Western North Carolina-based activist, artist, and the founder and creative director of Different Wrld, participated in a live conversation with BMCM+AC exploring the dynamics between artists of color in Asheville and our region’s creative ecology, emphasizing how arts organizations can support marginalized communities.

Image credit: Ati Gropius, Footnotes on the Year 1944, detail (digitally altered)
A Conversation with Marilyn Chase on Ruth Asawa, BMC Artist
Wednesday, July 22 (virtual)
Marilyn Chase, author of the newly published biography of artist and BMC alumna Ruth Asawa, Everything She Touched: The Life of Ruth Asawa, shared her research into Asawa’s life and work.

PERSPECTIVES: Steve Locke with Ben Hall
Wednesday, August 12 (virtual)
Artists Steve Locke and Ben Hall discussed Locke’s current work, Homage to the Auction Block, a series informed by Josef Albers’ Homage to the Square and the visual language of America’s long history of racial exploitation.

An Invisible Revolution
A Conversation with David McConville and Glenn English
August 27 (virtual)
A conversation about the relevance of Buckminster Fuller’s vision today, led by David McConville, cofounder of the integrative research and design studio Spherical, senior researcher for the Center of the Study of the Force Majeure (which brings together artists and scientists to design ecosystem regeneration projects in critical regions globally), and former chairman of the Buckminster Fuller Institute.

Ruth Asawa’s Radical Universalism
A Presentation by Jason Vartikar
Wednesday, September 23 (virtual)
Scholar Jason Vartikar presented his new research-based theories about how Ruth Asawa’s biomorphic sculptures engaged midcentury biological science to visualize universal racial equality.

Alma Stone Williams: Black Mountain College’s First African American Student
Thursday, October 22 (virtual)
Alma Stone Williams’ son, Dr. Russell Williams Jr., Associate Professor of Economics at Wheaton College, Massachusetts joined Joseph Bathanti, Professor of English and McFarlane Family Distinguished Professor in Interdisciplinary Studies at Appalachian State University and former Poet Laureate of North Carolina, for a conversation about Alma Stone Williams, who became the first African American student to attend an all-white college in the Jim Crow South when she enrolled at Black Mountain College in the summer of 1944.

John Cage: A Mycological Foray
Wednesday, November 18th (virtual)
A conversation with Atelier Éditions’ collaborative team and Laura Kuhn, Director of the John Cage Trust, about the newly published John Cage: A Mycological Foray.

Image credit: Ruth Asawa, S 373 (hanging wire sculpture), 1954
Digital outreach and programming grew tremendously as people all over the world made the swap from attending in-person events to interacting with the world online. Our followers on social media grew by 30% in the past year, and over 75,000 people visited our website to explore digital exhibitions, read blog posts, and access virtual programs. BMCM+AC also launched a prototype for a public-facing Permanent Collection portal, making it possible for visitors to view more details about the collection than ever before.

Through internships and virtual field trips, BMCM+AC connected with students across the divide of remote learning. In partnership with the Asheville City Schools Foundation TAPAS program, students were introduced to identity and social justice at Black Mountain College.

Community partners this year included Asheville City Schools Foundation TAPAS program, Care Partners Senior Living, Penland School of Craft, Revolve, Sand Hill Artists Collective, UNC Asheville, and Warren Wilson College.

Each year, works from the BMCM+AC Permanent Collection make it possible for museums around the world to tell stories about the incredible impact and influence of Black Mountain College and the individuals associated with it. Past exhibitions featuring works from our collections have included the traveling exhibition Leap Before You Look: Black Mountain College, 1933-1957 at ICA Boston, the Hammer Museum in Los Angeles, and The Wexner Center for the Arts in Columbus, OH; Black Mountain: An Interdisciplinary Experiment at the Hamburger Bahnhof Museum; Merce Cunningham: Common Time at the Walker Art Center; Robert Rauschenberg: Among Friends at the Museum of Modern Art; Ruth Asawa: Life’s Work at the Pulitzer Arts Foundation; and Anni Albers at Kunstsammlung Nordrhein-Westfalen and Tate Modern. This trend continued in 2020 despite cultural institutions being closed to the public.

This year, through a new Omeka collections portal, BMCM+AC made accessible hundreds of works from our permanent collection, the largest collection in the world dedicated to BMC with 4,000+ objects and artworks.
Four works were loaned to East Tennessee State University’s Reece Museum for the exhibition Jubilant Thicket: A Survey of Black Mountain Poets (March 2 – April 8, 2020), which highlighted the work of figures like Robert Creeley, Robert Duncan, Denise Levertov, Charles Olson, and Jonathan Williams. Twelve works were loaned to the Huntington Museum of Art for the exhibition The Wide Reach of the Bauhaus (October 10 – January 10, 2021), which focused on the penetrating influence of Bauhaus refugees as they brought their ideas to communities around the globe.

ACQUISITIONS

Gift of the Artist.

Seven photographs (images made in 1950 at BMC, prints made more recently) by Stan VanDerBeek.
Gift of Sara VanDerBeek.

Gift of the Milton Resnick and Pat Passlof Foundation.

Three ceramic works by Karen Karnes.
Gift of George and Kathy Dambach.

Gift of the Artist.

Image credit: Stan VanDerBeek; Robert Rauschenberg; Pat Passlof, Sudbury #2
Gift of Mary Holden Thompson.

Two untitled oil paintings by Zola Marcus.
Gift of Julie Feinsilver.

Three ceramic works by Karen Karnes, (Boulder [Untitled Vessel], ca. 2001; Lidded Casserole [Double Spouted Vessel], ca. 1990; Vessel with Extended Neck, ca. 2015). Gift of Rob Williams.

Gift of the Estate of Cynthia K. Homire.

Gift of Harold L. Glicksman.

Paint on wood. Gift of Louise Britton.

Two untitled ink on paper works by Lorrie Goulet, 1951.
Gift of the Artist.

Gift of the Artist.

Gift of Robert J. Hazelgrove, Jr.

Gift of Daniel F. McLawhorn.

Two serigraphs on Mohawk Superfine Bristol paper.
Gift of Diane Kent.

Two serigraphs on Mohawk Superfine Bristol paper.
Gift of Diane Kent.

Gift of Chan and Miegan Gordon.

Gift of Michael and Hanna Manes.

Gift of the artist.

Image credit: Faith Murray Britton; Karen Karnes, Boulder (Untitled Vessel); Jorge Fick, The Garden
The last remaining works of art on the Black Mountain College campus, other than architectural projects, are the frescos Inspiration and Knowledge, painted by Jean Charlot and his students during the inaugural Summer Art Institute at BMC in 1944. With the support of the Marion Stedman Covington Foundation and Camp Rockmont, this year BMCM+AC engaged the services of conservators Craig Crawford and Maho Yoshikawa to address the damage these frescos had suffered over the years, ranging from graffiti to degradation from environmental factors such as shade, light, insects, and moisture. Using their knowledge of frescos from the period, as well as historical records and photographs, Crawford and Yoshikawa stabilized the surface of the frescos and restored lost pigment, bringing out shapes and details which had been lost to time.
Janet Chloe (Heling) Roberts
(May 20, 1925 – January 28, 2020)
Janet Roberts counted her time as a student at Black Mountain College in the 1940s as one of the defining experiences in her life. BMC was a community that embraced her pioneering spirit, introduced her to lifelong friends (including her husband, Richard Roberts), and set her on the path of a career in education. She taught at the Blackfeet and Northern Cheyenne reservations in Montana, and established the first Native American Head Start program in the US. She served as the Head Start Training Officer for the state of Montana until 1975, and continued working in child development and teaching for many years thereafter. In the early 1980s, Jan and Richard built a log house near Superior, MT where they lived together with no electricity until Richard’s death in 2007. Afterward, Jan carried on alone there on the banks of Oregon Creek, amid the beauty of the natural world and with the support of her many friends and two children.

Irwin Kremen
(June 5, 1925 – February 5, 2020)
Irwin Kremen embodied the fluidity of the Black Mountain College spirit, embracing creativity, insight, and curiosity throughout his life as an artist, scholar, and educator. He enrolled in Black Mountain College in 1946 to pursue aspirations as a writer. He reconnected with the BMC community when he moved to New York City, becoming involved with the avant-garde networks surrounding David Tudor, Merce Cunningham, and John Cage, who dedicated his famous “silent composition” 4’33” to Kremen. Decades after leaving BMC, and in the middle of a successful career as a professor of clinical psychology, Kremen was encouraged by his former BMC writing professor M.C. Richards to begin making collages. Kremen did not show his work until the 1970s, but his pivot into artmaking proved to have a tremendous impact, leading to decades of creation, collaboration, and acclaim. Today his abstract collages and sculptures are held in collections around the world and have been featured in dozens of solo exhibitions.

Image credit: Hazel Larsen Archer; Irwin Kremen at BMC (photographer unknown)
Eric Russell Bentley
(September 14, 1916 – August 5, 2020)
Eric Bentley taught History and Drama at Black Mountain College during the summer session of 1942, and from 1943–1944. Born in Lancashire, he emigrated to the US in 1939, and later became responsible for introducing the works of many European playwrights to the United States, notably including Bertold Brecht, whom Bentley had met as a young man. In the 1960s, he founded DMZ, a cabaret devoted to political and social satire; became involved in leftist campus politics at Columbia University; and quit his job as faculty, in part to live openly as a gay man, and in part to realize his dream of being a playwright. He was renowned for his work as a theatre critic, editor, translator, and playwright, and was inducted into the American Theatre Hall of Fame in 1998. In his book The Playwright as Thinker, he wrote: “Experimentalism in the arts always reflects historical conditions, always indicates profound dissatisfaction with established modes, always is a groping toward a new age.”

Jean Hoffman Stewart Wexler
(June 12, 1921 – November 18, 2020)
Jean Wexler attended a summer institute at Black Mountain College, studying with Josef Albers. A prolific writer, she kept extensive gardening journals, and wrote the “Vineyard Gardener” column in the Vineyard Gazette for more than 20 years. In 1971, she co–wrote “The Martha’s Vineyard Cookbook,” now in its fourth edition, with Louise Tate–King. In the 1970s Wexler also created a quirky gift shop named Beetlebung, whose namesake has now returned in a new iteration and in the 1990s was instrumental in creating the famed Dumptique at the West Tisbury dump, and she managed this pioneering recycling shed for many years.

FRIENDS OF BMCM+AC

John Cram
(d. October 26, 2020)
John Cram was a longtime supporter and board member of BMCM+AC, and a pioneer of the Asheville arts scene. As the founder of New Morning Gallery, Blue Spiral 1, Bellagio, and the Fine Arts Theatre, his vision led to Asheville becoming the internationally recognized arts destination we are part of today.
FINANCIALS

CONTRIBUTED
Individual Contributions - $142,422
Private Foundations - $158,350
Government - $147,802
Sub-total - $448,574

EARNED
Public Programs - $6,485
Bookshop - $11,727
Royalties and Collection Loan Fees - $3,184
Sub-total - $21,396

Total Revenue - $469,970

EXPENSES
Exhibitions, Publications and Programs - $80,762
Administration - $107,538
Operations and Maintenance - $111,332
Engagement - $37,002
Development and Membership - $34,069
2021 Restricted Funds - $99,267

Total Expenses - $469,970

*as of 12/28/20
SUPPORTERS

BMC CIRCLE $15,000+
Donald and Cynthia Carson
Hedy Fischer and Randy Shull
Sydney and Michael Green
Jim and Kendall Oliver / AVL Technologies

BMC PATRONS $1,000+
Anonymous Donors
Helga and Jack Beam
John Byrd and Ellen Clarke
Trevor R. Drake and Anne R. Albright
Todd Fowler
Thomas Frank
Barry and Sandy Friedlander
Jeffrey Gardiner
Sarah and John Green
Elizabeth Holden
Larry Hopkins and Courtney Lerman
Bruce Hughes and Nancy Kirkland
Ron Janssen
Michael and Hanna Manes
Robert and Karen Milnes
Minigowin Fund of the Community Foundation of WNC
Yasuhiro Nagahara
Peggy Newell
Carol Pennell
Rob Pulley
Patrick Rumaker
Cherry and Paul Saenger
Andy Scott
Susan Turner
Judith Upjohn
Mitchell Wolfson

BMC BENEFACATORS $500+
Katie and Gus Adams
Marilyn Laufer and Tom Butler
Ellen Carr
Richard Chess
Roger and Corinne Crum
John English
John Farquhar
Nancy Holmes
Jan and Bruce Manes
Mark Nowotarski
Marya Roland
Jim Samsel
David Worley

FRIENDS
Aisha Adams, Brian Butler, Nancy Cable,
Julie Levin Caro, Matt Chambers, Katie Cornell, John Dancy-Jones, Erin Dickey,
Sara Downing, Charles Dusseau and Silvina Levis-Dusseau, Ken Fitch, River Guerguerian, Anna Helgeson, Laura Kuhn,
Jay Miller, Carmelo Pampillonio, Karin Peterson, David Silver, Molly Silverstein,
Heather South, Diana Stoll and Jeff Kinzel,
Julie J. Thomson, Regi Weile

2020 INTERNS
Lauren Callaghan
Jerdahn Campbell
Thomas McLamb

THANK YOU
Over the course of this difficult year, it was more important than ever to put every dollar to work. Even with many individuals and organizations facing unprecedented financial challenges, BMCM+AC’s supporters made it possible for us to retain our entire staff develop innovative programs, and support the work of artists and researchers who carry on the BMC legacy.

For a full list of donors, please visit our website.

*as of 1/10/21
BOARD + STAFF

STAFF
Jeff Arnal, Executive Director
Alice Sebrell, Program Director
Kate Averett, Outreach Manager
Carissa Pfeiffer, Development Coordinator

OFFICERS
Don Carson, Chair
Co-Founder + Managing Director, The Ansley Capital Group,
Co-Founder + Principal, Cardez Hospitality Group, Director,
LOR Inc. + Rollins Holding Company, Singer, Musician
Sydney Green, Vice Chair
Community Volunteer and Small Business Owner
Amanda Wiles, Secretary – Artist
Todd Fowler, Treasurer – CFO, Alfie Investors LLC

BOARD OF DIRECTORS
Helga Beam – Community Volunteer
Connie Bostic – Artist
John Byrd – Attorney
Richard Chess – Roy Carroll Professor of Honors Arts and Sciences at UNC Asheville, Poet and Writer
Curt Cloninger – Associate Professor of New Media, UNC Asheville
Marcia R. Cohen – Professor Emeritus, SCAD Atlanta
Hedy Fischer – Collector, Curator and Cultural Pollinator
Barry Friedlander – Retired Physician
Mary Lynn Kotz – Writer, Author of Rauschenberg: Art and Life
Leigh Maher – LMM Business Consulting,
CFO Leaf Festival/GM Lake Eden Events
Michael Manes – Gallery Director, Blue Spiral 1
Joseph Pearson – Artist/Activist
Dave Peifer – Professor of Mathematics, UNC Asheville
Carol Pennell – Real Estate Broker
Rob Pulley – Ceramicist and Owner, Marshall High Studios
Cherry Lentz Saenger – Retired Professor
Andy Scott – Special Projects Developer, Warren Wilson College Trustee
Mary Holden Thompson – Director Emerita, Founder
Teresa Swan Tuite – Executive Director of Student Success,
Lenoir–Rhyne University
Nan Zander – American Paintings Specialist,
General Manager and Auctioneer, Brunk Auctions

ADVISORY BOARD
Emoke B’Racz, Jeff Davis, Gene Felice, Jean B. Franklin, Rick Gruber, Larry
Hopkins, Katie Lee Koven, David McConville, Susan Rhew, Glen Shults, Jane
Anne Tager, Fred Turner
NEW FACES

This year, we welcomed four new members to our Board of Directors, bringing with them their wide ranging talents and perspectives.

Richard Chess is a prolific poet and essayist. He’s published four books of poetry, the most recent of which is Love Nailed to the Doorpost. He has served as writer-in-residence at the Brandeis Bardin Institute and as a member of the faculty of the Jewish Arts Program at Isabella Freedman Jewish Retreat Center. He directed UNC Asheville’s Center for Jewish Studies from 1992 to 2020. At UNC Asheville, he is the Roy Carroll Professor of Distinguished Arts & Sciences. He was one of the founders of UNC Asheville’s contemplative inquiry initiative.

Joseph Pearson

“I am human, and nothing of that which is human is alien to me.” — Roman playwright, Terence

Pearson believes in the power of art to provoke and expand society’s re-imagination. His role as an artist is as both observer and activist.

Cherry Lentz Saenger is a retired associate professor from Mars Hill University where she taught media, women’s studies and films courses. She has a Masters in Liberal Arts from University of North Carolina. Since her retirement from MHU she has been involved in the arts community through local board work and recently co-curated an exhibition at Pink Dog Creative.

Nancy (Nan) Zander has been in the art business for forty years, specializing in 19th and 20th century American paintings for auction houses and legendary art galleries, her own business in NY and Paris, and has put together various corporate and private collections. She is currently an auctioneer, the American Painting specialist and General Manager at Brunk Auctions in Asheville, as well as a choreographer and teacher for the Asheville Ballet Company.
COMMUNITY PARTNERS

UNC Asheville, OLLI, Media Arts Project, Lake Eden Events, Camp Rockmont
